

Following the Government intention as announced in the last Budget to introduce a Private Occupational Pension Schemes Bill, Aon Hewitt is taking a step ahead by providing a detailed overview of the roles for newly appointed pension fund trustees or management committee members, those thinking of becoming trustees and those simply interested in finding out more about what being a trustee involves. The overview also serves as a refresher for experienced trustees and management committee members interested in staying up-to-date.

Objectives

With the challenges for management committees and modern trusteeship accumulating on a daily basis, how effective is your pension fund when it comes to securing the best potential investment for your members? Does your fund enjoy the reputation of being well managed?

Being a trustee or member of the management committee is indeed a great responsibility!

If you are a trustee/member of management committee, or are considering becoming one, you need to understand some basic details about pensions, trusteeship, the legal framework and best practice surrounding occupational pensions.

As a trustee/member of management committee, you are responsible for the proper running of the pension fund – from the collection of contributions, to the investment of assets and payment of benefits.

The pension fund members look to you to make sure that the fund is well run and that their benefits are secure.
